EAST LANSING, Mich., Aug. 18, 2021 – Organic producers and handlers can now apply for U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) funds to assist with the cost of receiving or maintaining organic certification. Applications for the Organic Certification Cost Share Program (OCCSP) are due Nov. 1, 2021.

“Nearly 250 Michigan organic farms participated in the program last year, totaling just over $120 thousand in payments,” said David P. Russ, Acting State Executive Director for Michigan Farm Service Agency (FSA). “This year we encourage even more Michigan organic producers to participate in OCCSP, allowing our team to assist with recouping some of their organic certification costs.”

OCCSP provides cost-share assistance to producers and handlers of agricultural products for the costs of obtaining or maintaining organic certification under the USDA’s National Organic Program. Eligible producers include any certified producers or handlers who have paid organic certification fees to a USDA-accredited certifying agent during the 2021 and any subsequent program year. Producers can be reimbursed for expenses made between Oct. 1, 2020 and Sept. 30, 2021 including application fees, inspection costs, fees related to equivalency agreement and arrangement requirements, travel expenses for inspectors, user fees, sales assessments and postage.

For 2021, OCCSP will reimburse 50% of a certified operation’s allowable certification costs, up to a maximum of $500 for each of the following categories (or “scopes”):

- crops
- wild crops
- livestock
- processing/handling
- state organic program fees.

Organic farmers and ranchers may apply through an FSA county office.

This funding will be complemented by an additional $20 million for organic and transitioning producers through the Pandemic Assistance for Producers initiative. More information on that funding will be available in the coming weeks.
